The bag limit for the ducks is 25 in a day; for geese 8 or 50 in a week; jacksnipe, 25 a day or 50 a week. The quail season does not open until November 1 and will continue open until January 15. The bag limit is 15 a day or 30 a week. The season for tree squirrels opened September 1 and will close on December 31. The number that may be taken during the season is 12. Cottontail rabbits and bush rabbits may be shot from November 1 to January 15, 1922. The bag limit is 15 a day or 30 a week.

Sportsmen will seek the marshes today and tomorrow in quest of the coy mallard and wary widgeon and shy teal. Reports from the lowlands are that the birds are quite plentiful. Hunters are sure to have good shooting. On the bay shore the ducks are scattered in large flocks, but it is difficult to reach them. They are wild and fly away at the approach of anyone. There will not be a big flight of ducks from the north until the first rains. The first cold snap will bring the birds to the local marshes.

PIONEER LEAVES REDWOOD FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

He has bought an interest in an established firm in the city of Los Angeles. Mr. Read has also become interested in a large oil district there. Indications point to a large production of oil in the fields of the district. Already two flowing wells have been brought in and Mr. Read may become a Rockefeller. Who knows? He has the pluck and energy to make a try and may be successful.

Mr. Read has been a resident of Redwood City for the past 30 years. He has always taken a deep interest in the affairs of the town. Mr. Read has been a leading spirit in fraternal orders of this city for years. He carries with him to the sunny southland the best wishes of his friends in Redwood City. SEVERAL DECISIONS MADE IN CASES IN COURT

Two courts were in session Thursday and Friday at the court house. Judge Hudner was here from Hollister and occupied the supervisors' room. He heard the civil suit of C. H. Steenberger and others against H. H. McIntyer and others. The case was brought by plaintiffs charging the defendants with fraud. Some time ago plaintiffs secured a lease and option on 2,000 acres of reclaimed land east of Belmont For a loan of $9,000 the lease and option was transferred to defendants. They also received a mortgage on the growing hay on the land from plaintiffs. The creditors of plaintiffs secured the appointment of a trustee to take charge of the crop of hay. Some time ago Steenberger charged conspiracy on the part of the trustee and the defendants. After hearing the evidence Judge Hudner gave a decision in favor of the defendants, holding that there was no fraud. Appearing for plaintiffs were Attorneys Nusbaumer, Bing, Miller and Thornton and Miller. For defendants appeared J. H. Machado, Street & Street and Attorney Prescott.

DEATH OF DR. HARVEY ROSS

Veteran of World War Succumbs to Pneumonia Attack at Home in Honolulu---Lived in Redwood City as a Boy, Son of Dr. Joseph L. Ross

Dr. Joseph L. Ross late Wednesday afternoon received a cablegram announcing the death of his oldest son, Dr. Harvey Ross, at Honolulu T. H. The cablegram stated that the young doctor died from an attack of pneumonia, from which he suffered only a short time before succumbing.

The news came as a great shock to his father and friends in Redwood City.

Dr. Harvey Ross graduated from the Lane Medical College in San Francisco nearly twenty years ago. After acting as chief surgeon for the Matson line of steamers running between San Francisco and the islands he decided to locate in Hawaii to practice his profession. He soon attained prominence and was appointed physician and surgeon for one of the largest sugar plantations there.

World War Veteran

For a number of years he was identified with the militia, being commisioned a major. When the world war involved the United States Dr. Ross was appointed a captain in the medical department of the army, a position he held until the armistice was signed. He did splendid work in the camps in urging and completing sanitary reforms. After resigning his commisison he became connected with the public health service of the government, holding that position at the time of his death.

Dr. Ross as a practicing physician enjoyed a large and lucrative practice at Honolulu and was accounted one of the most skillful surgeons on the islands. Everyone in Hawaii loved and liked Dr. Ross. He had been a resident of Honolulu for over fifteen years.

Married in Honolulu

Shortly after locating there he met and married the charming and pretty Miss Esther Rickert, daughter of the former prime minister to Queen Liliuokalani. Mr. Rickert came from England as a youth. He was a lawyer and was for a number of years the chief adviser of the island queen. Mrs. Ross is a native of Honolulu, highly accomplished and beautiful. They have one son, aged 12 years, now attending a private school at Honolulu.

The remains of the beloved doctor were buried with military honors yesterday.

Harvey Ross was born in the little town of Mayfield 41 years ago, to which place his father and mother came shortly after his graduation from a medical college in Illinois.

Redwood City Schoolboy

Some few years later the elder Ross located in Redwood City, where Harvey attended the grammar school and grew to manhood surrounded by cheerful environment and pleasant companionship. As a boy he was beloved by his playmates for his fairness, gentleness and buoyant spirit. He was ever ready to defend the weak against the strong and in his boyish way also stood for what he thought was right.

When he began his medical course in the Lane Medical College to fit himself for the profesion in which his father had gained eminence, he was a tall, handsome young man with a laudable ambition to make a success of the career which he had chosen for himself. He graduated with honors from the medical college and at once started on the practice of his profession.

An Eminent Physician

That Dr. Ross had realized at least a part of his ambitions is evidenced from the rapid rise he made in his profession in the islands. That he should have died before he had attained more fully the coveted goal is a matter of regret, but such are the ways of Providence.

The trials of life are ended now. The busy arms are folded in eternal rest, the deep hush of death has sealed the lips and stilled the heart forever. The grim destroyer has darkened that far away island home where sit the loved ones watching and waiting, longing to call back the dear departed; but alas, the cold, still form from which the spirit has been wafted to the better world answers not: it will be heard on earth no more, forever.

Dr. Harvey Ross is survived by his widow and young son, his father, Dr. J. L. Ross; his sister, Miss Sarah Frances Ross, a prominent educator in the state of Illinois; a half-brother, Joseph Ross, and half-sister, Miss Blanche Ross, a Stanford student. George C. Ross, the well known attorney, was his uncle.

The heartfelt sympathy of this community and the public generally is extended to Dr. J. L. Ross and his family in their sad affliction. Dr. Ross idolized his son and the sad news of the death has been a severe shock to him.

Billows of smoke issuing from the transom of the Redwood City postoffice gave cause for alarm Tuesday evening and brought the fire department to the scene in a jiffy. Investigation proved the scare to be unfounded, as the cause of the smoke was nothing more than a stove that was stuffed with paper smoldering and smoking profusely on account of a closed damper. The trouble was soon alleviated and the excited people went home without a thrill.

E. L. Marshall, whose home on Hopkins avenue, Redwood Highlands, has just been remodeled and brought up to date, departed last Tuesday on an extended business trip to Atlanta, Ga. He will stop over en route at New York City and take in the world's baseball series, the opening of which is scheduled for October 4.

The trustees of Sequoia Union High School held an interesting session Wednesday afternoon at which they decided upon a plan of asking architects to present plans for the proposed new school building. The leading architects of the state have been invited to take up the work of preparing suitable plans. The trustees are considering the proposition of buying one or more large buses to accommodate the students at Menlo Park, Woodside, Belmont and other localities. The problem of transportation for the pupils is one that is giving the trustees much bother at present, owing to the rapidly increasing attendance. There are now 308 pupils enrolled at the school and the attendance is growing.

L. P. Behrens, president of the First National Bank, leaves today for Los Angeles to attend the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association. The convention will be in session for one week. He has had every honor bestowed upon him by the California Bankers' Association, having filled all the offices from president down. Mr. Behrens has also held a number of offices in the national association. He has an intimate acquaintance with nearly all the prominent bankers of the country.

The board of supervisors is wrestling with the vexatious problem of redistricting the voting precincts of the county. According to law this work will have to be completed by November 1. Owing to the increasing population in every precinct in the county the problem is hard to solve. There are now 75 precincts in the county. It is believed this number will reach the hundred mark by the new redistricting.

HIGHTOWER TO GO TO TRIAL MONDAY

The stage has been set for the trial of W. A. Hightower in the superior court next Monday when the case will be called at 10 o'clock. All seats will be at a premium. The clerk has sent out notice to 32 jurymen of the regular panel to be present at that hour. No doubt the panel will soon be exhausted, when a number of talesmen will be taken from the body of the county. It is believed that it will take nearly two days to secure a jury in the celebrated case.

Among the witnesses to be called to testify in defense are Joyce Clark, who was contended to be the mysterious "Dolly Mason" who furnished Hightower the information of the priest's body, and Zey Prevon, both of whom are connected with the Arbuckle case in San Francisco.

It is thought considerable time will be used in selecting a jury, due to the wide publicity which has been given the case. District Attorney Franklin Swart and his assistant, John Machado, have been busily engaged in preparing the state's case and are confident that they will secure a conviction. Hightower will be represented by Albert Mansfield, E. J. Emmons, W. W. Laidley and W. F. Herron.

The sum of $400,000 will be expended in building the speedway. A contract amounting to $175,000 has already been let to inaugurate the work. Theodore A. REASONS FOR REFUNDING BILL

In supporting the bill authorizing the government to refund the railroad indebtedness, Representative Robert E. Evans of Nebraska used the following illustration to picture the relation which the government has to the railroad debt:

"It is as if the government had taken over a piece of property without your permission, fixed a rental at its figure, put on it such improvements as it thought best without consultation with you, and although the income therefrom was the source of your livelihood, refused to pay the rent because of the improvements it had put upon your property, and then returned the property to you, requiring you to make the property not only pay the usual profit but pay any excess that the improvement cost during the time it operated it and out of the ordinary earnings of the property. That would be a deal between you and the government. It is a case where the government concedes it owes the railroads a large amount of money due, but the exact amount of which has not yet been agreed upon, and where the railroads owe the government a large amount of money which has been agreed upon, but is not equitably payable at this time. In some cases the balance is in favor of a particular road and in others the balance is against another road. We wish the roads which in most cases are having difficulty in securing loans for extraordinary or for other than operating expenses to function properly and efficiently, which can only be done if funds for the extraordinary expenses and extra charges are not forthcoming. We wish to close the accounts covering government control. Already by acts of congress the administration is authorized to set off or fund these debts so far as to the president may seem wise, and that means that the president will use his discretion so as to leave the roads financially sound and unembarrassed. The present act authorizes the sale of that portion of the debt that has been or shall be funded through the war finance corporation. The result of this will be the closing out of the unsettled claims between the government and the roads with which settlements are made. The roads by so settling have the immediate advantage of what is due to them or will have a cancellation of a portion of their liabilities and will have determined certainly its income, its existing debt and hence its financial status. From such time it can accurately determine the financial basis upon which its operations must rest and upon which its future operations shall be conducted. It will conduce to certainty in the transaction of business and in cases of necessity 'consummation devoutly to be .... furnish needed funds, a 'consummation devoutly to be wished."

President Harding's selections of members of the American delegation to the armaments conference have beed hailed with the widest approval. No stronger quartet could have been chosen to look after American interests.

SHORTRIDGE TELLS 'EM

Senator S. M. Shortridge is telling the people of the east the true facts concerning the Japanese question in California. In a speech at Pittsburg, Pa., on September 27 he said "California must not become another Hawaii," speaking before the convention of the Pennsylvania Kiwanis Club. Demanding that all oriental immigration into the United States be stopped, the Senator continued:

"Whatever may be thought to the contrary, the past or present development of California has not rested nor does it rest on Japanese labor. California must not become another Hawaii. Today the economic troubles of the Hawaiian Islands, which threaten the very life of many of their industries, are due to Japanese. The American laborer cannot successfully compete with Japanese labor and for reasons which are obvious.

"Every nation has the right to determine who shall and who shall not enter into and abide within its territory. Japan has always exercised this right by excluding foreigners and practically denying the right to possess or acquire or hold title to her land. And it is no just cause for complaint or offense when we exercise the same right. We do not covet the lands of Japan nor seek to force our citizens upon her, and we are determined that she shall not possess our land and force her subjects upon us. If it be said that the Japanese in California are few I reply that they are rapidly increasing. There are today close to 100,000, at least, in our state. The birth rate exceeds that of all other races. Of course those born here are citizens of our country.

"The Japanese will add nothing to the strength of our country. s a race they are essentially dinfferent from us. The eternal laws of nature divide us. The two races will never live in peace and harmony on the same soil, nor will these two races ever amalgamate. No problem breeds more dissension than the race problem.

"California claims the constitutional right to determine who shall acquire and hold title to her territory. Of course, whatever right an alien has to acquire property in our country, whether it be personal property or real property, must be found in a treaty between this country and his."

REVISION AS PROMISED

Relief from taxation is what the people want. They voted last November for relief from Wilsonism and high taxes are largely a result of the extravagant manner in which the Wilson administration conducted both the war and the peace business of the government. It is impossible for the Republican administration to put government expenditures back to a normal figure in a few months, but the administration is making progress in that direction. In a corresponding degree taxation will be reduced. It must be remembered that in the campaign of 1920 the Republicans expressly disavowed any expectation of immediately reducing taxes, but they pledged an immediate revision of taxes so that the taxes which discourage enterprise and thrift would be repealed. That much the Republicans can and will accomplish.

The keel of a new Japanese ship of war has just been laid at Camden, N. J. Meanwhile the United States is largely curtailing its own naval construction. We hope the incidents do not indicate the relative good faith of the two nations in their desires for limitation of naval armaments.

The list of unemployed is long, but not as long as it would be if we let Europeans write our tariff schedules.

TAX THE FOREIGNER ALSO

European and Asiatic industries pay no tax to the United States unless they pay it through the American customhouses. Every American industry pays a tax, many taxes, to the federal, the state and the municipal governments. Now European nations are appearing before congressional committees arguing for lower duty on goods imported into this country. If they ship their goods in here American industry will suffer to the extent that foreign goods supplant American goods in our own markets. Therefore they are asking the United States to relieve them of taxes at the customhouse in order to the more easily destroy American industry. And they think we might possibly be simple minded enough to fall for that sort of a scheme.

SAVINGS UNDER BUDGET LAW

The value of the new budget law has already been proved, even befgore the appropriations for the next fiscal year have been considered by congress. Application of the principles of the law to the funds already set aside for the current year has shown that a total of upwards of $30,000,000 can be saved. The end of the fiscal year is June 30, next, and before that time arrives further substantial savings may be made possible.

HOPE FOR VIRGINIA

Col. Henry W. Anderson, Republican nominee for governor of Virginia, recently attacked the domination of his state by the Democratic party, stating: "The responsibility for the results of this one-party management of the affairs of Virginia rests primarily with this political organization; but in the last analysis it rests with the people, who by their indifference or blind following of a party name, which no longer stands for principles, have continued this machine in power."

Colonel Anderson did not overdraw it. The Democratic party, to which the majority of Virginians have so long sworn fealty, abides by not one solitary principle which made up the creed of that party prior to the era of Wilsonism.

Another thing: the roads of Virginia are a disgrace to the state beyond characterization. The fact that a sister state, Maryland, has constructed and maintains a system of roads unsurpassed by any other state in the union seems to have had not the slightest effect in encouraging Virginia to emulation. This is one of the curses of domination by a political party that is positively Stygian in its benightedness. That domination should be assoiched and the Virginians should awaken to their responsibilities as a civilized community. There should be no shibboleth in the word "Democrat." That old ring which strangles the Old Dominion should be broken.

RESULTS OF CO-OPERATION

In a small town in North Carolina a tent tabernacle was destroyed by a storm and the citizens got together and built a wooden tabernacle with a seating capacity of 1,500, in one day. The tabernacle was used for a meeting the evening of that day. That shows what can be done when all work together. Now if the whole nation would go to work in the same spirit to pull this country out of the wreck following an industrial storm, the results would be just as remarkable and satisfactory.

The new British tariff law bears a title which declares its purpose to be to "safeguard" British industry. In this country we use the word "protect." Call it by whatever name you please, it is the same in effect and Great Britain is once more an exponent of the protective tariff. It is time the United States returned to the protective basis also.

BANK OF ITALY MAKES FURTHER STOCK INCREASE

Increase in the capital stock of the Bank of Italy to $26,000,000 is forecast today in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of that institution and addressed to the bank's board of directors.

The proposal as set forth by the executive committee asked the board of directors to initiate the necessary proceedings at its next meeting to increase the caipital stock of the bank from its present authorized, fully paid up capital of $10,000,000. It is contemplated that this additional capital stock will be issued in such quantities and at such times as the board will designate, beginning with an immediate issue of 50,000 shares at $200 per share.

When this additional capital stock of the Bank of Italy has been sold its capital, surplus and undivided profits, together with those of the auxiliary corporation, will aggregate over $100,000,000 placing the Bank of Italy among the foremost banks of the nation, such as the National City Bank of New York, whose working capital is slightly over $100,000,000, and the National Bank of Commerce with a little over $50,000,000.

"The Bank of Italy is essentially the people's bank," said . P. Giannini, its president, "and we propose to keep it so. It now serves a large part of California, but it is our intention, with the approval of the duly constituted authorities, to extend Bank of Italy service to every section of our great state. At present 4,000 Californians own Bank of Italy stock, but in order to give more Californians an opportunity to become interested we are going to ask our present stockholders to waive their prior rights to at least one-third of the contemplated new issue."

The executive committee in its action has followed the established policy of the bank to maintain an adequate ratio between its increasing deposits and paid in capital. The bank further intends to provide adequate buildings for its branches at Los Angeles, Sacramento, Stockton and Fresno, as well as in several of the smaller cities where the present quarters have been outgrown. It also intends to extend the benefits of its service to the whole state of California by establishing branches in other important centers to which its facilities have not yet been extended. More available stock will therefore be necessary with which to interest residents of new communities entered.

The latest statement of the Bank of Italy showed resources of approximately $190,000,000, not including the Rideout banks of the Sacramento Valley and the recently acquired institutions at Bakersfield.

THE END OF A FAMILY ROW

H. Carpentier, 67 Portola street, San Francisco, who claimed he had been thrown into Cordilleras Creek after a severe beating at the hands of his stepson, Earl Cathey, and an unknown man late Sunday night was unable to substantiate his charge when the two men appeared before Ray Griffin, justice of the peace. The men were discharged. As far as it could be ascertained the affair appeared to have been a family row and evidence of battery was lacking.

P. J. May of San Mateo saved the tail light and three spokes of his Ford car when it was in a dispute as to right of way with a Southern Pacific engine on October 19, 1920, at Broadway station, Burlingame. The Southern Pacific engine got the better of the dispute and May was without anything resembling a Ford, other than the tail light and three spokes, for twenty days. These are the assertions of a complaint he filed in the superior court this week asking $550 from the railroad company—$400 for the auto and $150 for the loss of its use until he could procure another. He makes no concession in damages on account of the recovery of the three spokes and tail light.
